

"Woman's Call of the Wild"

An inner journey, vision quest and fall retreat in nature

Saturday September 10, 9:00 am – Sunday September 11, 3:00 pm

Pebble Ledge Ranch, Novelty, Ohio

Have you been dreaming and awakening to inner knowing?

Gather your deep feminine instinct, free horse spirit, wildish and wolfish nature and love of the natural world. We will follow the trails through the forest uncovering our natural primitive self step by step. Gathering in a tribal circle we will share care and wisdom

The river calls us to be heard, the earth longs for our footsteps to hold the souls of our feet, the trees and rocks have secrets to tell us, the fire holds healing warmth for our bones and the wind inspiration for our spirit. Explore the beauty of your changing seasons. Moving with the rhythm of timelessness and ceremonial space, listening deeply within we will create the energetic field to support each other's wisdom and instinctual natures.

Connecting through nature to your wilderness spirit, inner nature and natural being

- Discover quiet moments in nature and spend peaceful time
- Join a herd of seven wise horses and one courageous zebra
- Sit by a campfire or listen to the creek to reflect, dream and vision
- Stretch your body and self perception walking or climbing
- Dwell beneath 350 million year old ledges & 1.1 billion year old crystals
- Nap underneath a tree and enjoy the simple luxury of slowing down.
- Awaken through body intelligence and energetic awareness
- Sleep on the earth; under the stars, in the forest yurt or cottage
- Expand your authentic presence and life design through ceremony
- Explore the simple questions: Who am I? How am I to be? What is my unique purpose? If not now when?

Location: Pebble Ledge Ranch, Novelty, Ohio

Camping overnight in the forest in tents or in the yurt.

Meals included

The land is about 80 acres and is surrounded by 500 acres of Geauga Park land and the Geauga Rookery. The Chagrin River wanders along and through the forest of the east boundary offering beautiful places to dwell by the water and to splash about on warm days. The west boundary is guarded by a Hemlock forest and old Canadian Glacial Rock and ledge formations and millions of 1.1 billion year old quartz pebbles...hence the name Pebble Ledge. On the north boundary is a three acre natural bog with amazing lily pads, water birds, turtles and many other primordial critters of the bog. The south boundary is living space for people and horses. The 20 acre rolling pasture is home to the herd of 7 remarkable horses and one courageous zebra, which live freely, joyfully and at peace.

We have a campsite in the forest above the beautiful ancient grandfather and grandmother ledges. Many sacred and ceremonial sites have revealed themselves and welcome us to learn from them.
