The Invitation

Gather your deep feminine instinct, free horse spirit, wildish and wolfish nature, and love of the natural world. Together we will follow forest trails step by step, uncovering our natural, instinctual selves. In a tribal circle around a warming fire, we will share stories, wisdom, and quiet knowing

.The river calls to be heard.

The earth longs for our footsteps to hold the souls of our feet.

The trees and rocks have secrets to tell.

The fire offers healing warmth for our bones.

The wind inspires our spirit.

Through nature, we reconnect with our wilderness spirit—our inner nature, our natural way of being

You are invited to step out of ordinary time and into a ceremonial field shaped by winter, horses, fire, forest, river, and stone. This is a day of listening—to the land, to the herd, to the deep voice within you that knows how to wander, rest, howl, and return to the wild.

We will walk forest trails slowly, allowing the land to set the pace.
We will sit with horses who carry ancient wisdom in their breath and bodies.
We will gather around fire—warming our bones, sharing stories, speaking what longs to be heard.
We will listen to water moving beneath ice, to wind threading through trees, to the quiet guidance rising from within.

The river calls us to remember our voice.
The earth longs to feel our footsteps.
The trees and rocks offer their long-held stories.
The fire brings warmth, healing, and transformation.
The wind carries our prayers.

In sacred circle, we call in the ancestors—those of blood, spirit, and belonging. We listen to the wisdom they offer and the healing they invite. We honor the wild feminine as a source of intuition, protection, courage, and deep belonging.

Registration and payment: Open to a circle of 16 women.
To register for your place in the circle or for more information contact Jackie at jacalynstevenson@gmail.com.

The Land

Pebble Ledge Ranch is a living sanctuary—ancient ledges, glacial stones, wandering river, bog waters, forest paths, and wide pasture shared with horses and wild ones alike. Sacred sites throughout the land welcome us into relationship, ceremony, and remembering.

Held in winter's stillness, we create a sacred ceremonial container—one that supports healing, wisdom, grief, joy, and the reawakening of our instinctual nature. Together we tend a living field of remembrance, belonging, and soul-level listening. This day is not about becoming something new. It is about remembering and coming home to who you have always been,
